The Ocean Bottom.

Mr. Green, the famous diver, tells singular stories of his adventures, when making search in the deep waters of the ocean. He gives some new sketches of what he saw at the "Silver Bank," near Hayti:

The banks of coral on which my divers were made are about forty miles in length, and from ten to twenty in breadth. On this bank of coral is presented to the diver one of the most beautiful and sublime scenes the eye ever beheld. The water varies from ten to one hundred feet in depth, and so clear that the diver can see from two to three hundred feet when submerged, with but little obstruction to the sight.

The bottom of the ocean in many places is as smooth as a marble floor; in others it is studded with coral columns, from ten to one hundred feet in height, and from one to eighty feet in diameter. The tops of these more lofty support a myriad of pyramidal pendants, each forming a myriad more, giving reality to the imaginary abode of some water-nymph. In other places the pendants form arch after arch and, as the diver stands on the bottom of the ocean, and gazes through in the deep winding avenues he finds that they fill him with as sacred an awe as if he were in some old cathedral which had long been buried beneath old ocean's wave. Here and there the coral extends even to the surface of the water, as if the lofty columns were towers belonging to those stately temples that are now in ruins.

There were countless varieties of trees, shrubs and plants in every crevice of the corals where water had deposited the earth. They were all of a faint hue, owing to the pale light they received, although of every shade, and entirely different from plants that I am familiar with that vegetate upon dry land. One in particular attracted my attention; it resembled a sea-fan of immense size, of variegated colors and the most brilliant hue. The fish which inhabit these "Silver Banks" I found as different in kind as the scenery was varied. They were of all forms, colors and sizes—from the symmetrical goby to the globe-like sunfish; from the dullest hue to the changeable dolphin; from the spots of the leopard to the hues of sunbeams; from the harmless minnow to the voracious shark.

Some had heads like squirrels, others like cats and dogs, some of small size resembled the bull terrier. Some darted through the water like meteors, while others could scarcely be seen to move.

To enumerate and explain all the various kinds of fish I beheld while diving on these banks would, were I enough of a naturalist so to do, require more than my limits allow, for I am convinced that most of the kinds of fish which inhabit the tropical seas can be found there. The sun fish, star fish, white shark and blue or shovel nose shark were often seen.

There were also fish which resembled plants, and remained as fixed in their position as a shrub; the only power they possessed was to open and shut when in full bloom, and were of all hues. These were the ribbon fish, from four to five inches to three feet in length; their eyes are very large and protrude like those of a frog.

Another fish is spotted like a leopard, from three to ten feet in length. They build their houses like beavers, in which they spawn, and the male or female watches the egg until it hatches. I saw many specimens of the green turtle, some five feet long, which I should think would weigh from 400 to 500 pounds.

A NEW SET OF TEETH.—There is a lady in this city, who has cut a new set of teeth since she has passed the meridian of life. Having lost her teeth, she was most skillfully supplied with an artificial set by one of our accomplished dentists, but after wearing them a short time she found that the upper portion of the set hurt her gums; thinking the plate was bent or that there was some mechanical defect about the arrangement she returned to the dentist, who examined her gums and astonished her by telling her that a new tooth was coming. She laid aside her false teeth, and one after another the new teeth came forth, and now the lady glories in a beautiful and complete set of natural growth, which, in appearance, rival the artificial set, and in real use and comfort are worth a dozen of them. This appears strange, but the living witnesses, as white as ivory, are in this city. —Norfolk Day Book.

A PULPIT INCIDENT.—Some time ago, the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon preached a sermon on the text—"And Mary wept." In the midst of a stream of earnest eloquence that drew tears from many of those present, in describing the character of the tears shed by Mary over the feet of Jesus, he broke suddenly off, and turning to his congregation, exclaimed: "The tears which Mary shed were not such tears as you weep out when you come to this altar. They came from the heart—they were tears of blood—and not the poor stuff that you present as an offering to an offended God." Then, leaning over the pulpit, and looking earnestly in the sea of upturned faces, he exclaimed: "There are some of you for whose tears I would not give a farthing a quart."

LANGUAGE OF THE TELEGRAPH.—There is a universal language, or, at least, the foundation of one, found in the fact that one and the same telegraph alphabet is used in Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, the German States, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Malta, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia, Persia, Greece, Turkey, Africa, and India; also for the Mediterranean, Persian Gulf, and the Atlantic cable. This alphabet, the New York Commercial Advertiser says, was originated by the Germans.

"I say, Clem," cried two disputing dandies, appealing for decision to a sable umpire, "which word is right—di-zactly or de-zactly?" The sable umpire reflected a moment, and then, with a look of wisdom, said, "I can't tell per zactly."

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.
Without making a useless harangue, I will say to my friends and the public that I am now prepared to supply all of their wants in the way of STOVES. It is time lost to undertake to look for anything better than can be found in my store. I have something new in the way of HEATING STOVES, which cannot be surpassed in style, or beauty of design. To one and all I will say that whatever I sell I warrant to answer the purpose I sold it for. I therefore invite my country friends to call and examine my stock of COOKING and HEATING STOVES before purchasing elsewhere, confident that they will not go away displeased. I would also enumerate amongst my stock a fine lot of TIN WARE, of my own manufacture, and made by very experienced workmen; also, TINNED SALES, PRESERVING KETTLES, Fruit Cans, Fine Japanese and Plated Ware and Chamber Sets, to which I would call the attention of the public. Coffee Urns, Tea Urns, Waffle Irons, Children's Toys, and a fine lot of Block Tin Ware and other articles which are too numerous to mention. Thankful for past patronage I hope to have a continuance of the same.
